DOCTORAL RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP

Job description

A Doctoral Research Fellowship (SKO 1017) is available at the Department of Linguistics and Scandinavian Studies, University of Oslo, within the field of Old Norse and Celtic Philology.

The research environment Old Norse and Celtic Philology has a multifaceted profile, with researchers working in a variety of fields, including textual studies, literature, runology, palaeography, and language and cultural history; the geographical range is broad, spanning the West and East Norse areas, and Celtic-speaking regions in Ireland and Britain.

The Department of Linguistics and Scandinavian Studies invites applicants to submit proposals for PhD projects relevant to any of the fields represented within the research group in Old Norse and Celtic Philology. We especially welcome proposals connected to one or more of the following subjects:

- Multilingualism in North Atlantic cultures (Scandinavia including Iceland, Ireland and Britain), 500–1500
- Norse/Celtic cultural connections
- Runology and medieval Scandinavian Epigraphy from a cultural and/or language history perspective
- Medieval Irish or comparative Celtic texts and folklore

The person appointed will be affiliated with the Faculty's organized research training. The academic work is to result in a doctoral thesis that will be defended at the Faculty with a view to obtaining the degree of PhD. The successful candidate is expected to join the existing research milieu or network and contribute to its development. Read more about the doctoral degree.

The appointment is for a duration of 3 years. All PhD Candidates who submit their doctoral dissertation for assessment with a written recommendation from their supervisor within 3 years or 3 ½ years after the start of their PhD position, will be offered, respectively, a 12 or 6 month Completion Grant.

Qualification requirements

- A Master's degree or equivalent in a relevant discipline.
- The Master's degree must have been obtained and the final evaluation must be available by the application deadline.
- Fluent oral and written communication skills in English.
- Personal suitability and motivation for the position.

To be eligible for admission to the doctoral programmes at the University of Oslo, applicants must, as a minimum, have completed a five-year graduation course (Master's degree or equivalent), including a Master's thesis of at least 30 ECTS. In special cases, the Faculty may grant admission on the basis of a one-year Master course following an assessment of the study programme's scope and quality.

In assessing the applications, special emphasis will be placed on:

- The project's scientific merit, research-related relevance and innovation
- The project's connection with one of more of the subjects listed above
- The applicant's estimated academic and personal ability to complete the project within the time frame
- The applicant's ability to complete research training
- Good collaboration skills and an ability to join interdisciplinary academic communities

Applicants who have recently graduated with excellent results may be given preference.

We offer

- Salary NOK XXX – XXX per annum depending on qualifications (lønnsstrinn 54-59 LO/YS/UNIO)
- A professionally stimulating working environment
- Membership in the Norwegian Public Service Pension Fund
- Attractive welfare benefits

How to apply

The application must include:

- Application letter describing the applicant's qualifications and motivation for the position
- Curriculum Vitae (with a list of education, positions, teaching experience, administrative experience and other qualifying activities, including a complete list of publications)
