

Kristin Bech

For the benefit of those of you who are not familiar with the corpus application we use, I will present it, and show how the different layers of annotation build on each other – syntax on morphology and information structure on syntax. I will also talk about some of the difficulties we encounter when we annotate for information structure.