Department of Musicology Doctoral Research Fellowship in Early Music

Job description

The Department of Musicology at The University of Oslo invites applications for a PhD Research Fellowship in the field of Early Music (music before 1550).

The successful candidate will work on an independent research project on any aspect of music or musical culture before 1550. Proposals relating to music history, performance, theory, or analysis pertaining to repertoires before 1550 will be considered. Projects may also engage with questions of music notation, transmission, and material and manuscript culture. Perspectives that complement the research priorities of the Institute of Musicology and the Faculty of Humanities are especially encouraged.

The candidate will be supervised by Professor Catherine A. Bradley, and will be affiliated with the research training programme at the Faculty of Humanities. They will have the opportunity to be part of a lively research milieu surrounding the ERC-funded project BENEDICAMUS (at the Department of Musicology) and the EU COST Action Earlymuse.

The person appointed will be affiliated with the Faculty's organized research training. The academic work is to result in a doctoral thesis that will be defended at the Faculty with a view to obtaining the degree of PhD. The successful candidate is expected to join the existing research milieu or network and contribute to its development. Read more about the doctoral degree.

The appointment is for a duration of 3 years. All PhD Candidates who submit their doctoral dissertation for assessment with a written recommendation from their supervisor within 3 years or 3 ½ years after the start of their PhD position, will be offered, respectively, a 12 or 6 month Completion Grant.

Qualification requirements

- A Master's degree or equivalent in musicology. The Master's degree must have been obtained and the final evaluation must be available by the application deadline.
- Fluent oral and written communication skills in English, see Language requirements evt and a Scandinavian language.

To be eligible for admission to the doctoral programmes at the University of Oslo, applicants must, as a minimum, have completed a five-year graduation course (Master's degree or equivalent), including a Master's thesis of at least 30 ECTS. In special cases, the Faculty may grant admission on the basis of a one-year Master course following an assessment of the study programme's scope and quality.

In assessing the applications, special emphasis will be placed on:

- The project's scientific merit, research-related relevance and innovation
- The applicant's estimated academic and personal ability to complete the project within the time frame
- The applicant's ability to complete research training
- Good collaboration skills and an ability to join interdisciplinary academic communities

Applicants who have recently graduated with excellent results may be given preference.
